Black Dog Cycle Works Announces New Rugged Skid Plate for F800GS

A NEW ADDITION TO THE BLACK DOG Cycle Works' (BDCW) comprehensive line of rugged skid plates and motorcycle protection products was announced, with the release of their new BMW F800GS Rugged Skid Plate.

This innovative design utilizes two steel supports on the front and back to brace the skid plate against hard impacts that would typically rip off the OEM stock "skid plate" (splash guard), or other aftermarket skid plates that only utilize four rubber shear mounting bolts. The rear steel support attaches to the motorcycle's frame, giving it greater strength and durability. Another innovative feature of this BDCW F800GS rugged skid plate is that it can be removed or installed on the bike with only two bolts. A "keyhole" design in the rear of the plate secures it to the underlying framework, simplifying maintenance. Making this product even more versatile, the design is the only known skid plate compatible with the high performance full Remus exhaust system. As with their other skid plate designs, the F800GS rugged skid plate offers more protection than any others on the market, providing full coverage of the oil cooler, oil filter, engine case, exhaust headers and catalytic converter.

The F800GS rugged skid plate is made from 3/16" aluminum, coated with a tough, silver vein powder coat plus a clear powder coat for additional durability. This color serves as a great compliment for any BMW paint scheme.

The F800GS Rugged Skid Plate is available through BDCW, at www.blackdogcw.com, or by calling 208-263-0438. MSRP is $349.
